Fruit for our 2014 Owl Ridge Dry Creek Valley Sauvignon Blanc is sourced from a single vineyard in the northern part of historic Dry Creek Valley. Famed for its morning fog and stony soils, this region has been producing world-class wines for over 130 years.

Our hand-picked grapes were gently whole-cluster pressed, settled overnight and then fermented cold for the next three weeks. The wine was then carefully racked off the heavy lees and aged in stainless steel for the next five months.

The result is our 2014 Owl Ridge Dry Creek Valley Sauvignon Blanc which boasts of fresh melon and kiwi fruit with a hint of grassiness. Refreshing, clean and crisp, it pairs well with fresh cracked crab and oysters on the half shell. Enjoy now or over the next 2 years.
